

Financial Markets and the Global Challenges

Overview and Schedule

Outline

Financial markets are the backbone of the economy.

The world is facing many challenges such as climate change, crime and international conflicts, ageing societies or economic disruptions.

In this lecture series, faculty members of the School of Economics and Management will discuss how financial markets are related and/or might provide means to tackle these challenges.

Schedule

Attendance at all presentations is required

- 18.4.2023: Marcel Prokopczuk | Kick-off
- 25.4.2023: Arevik Gnutzmann-Mkrtchyan | Innovation-driven Economic Growth and Financial Markets
- 2.5.2023: Marina Schröder | Innovation and Financial Markets
- 9.5.2023: Judith Schneider | Non-Financial Preferences, ESG Investing and the EU Taxonomy
- 16.5.2023: Kay Blaufus | Taxes and ESG Investing on Financial Markets

Schedule

- 23.5.2023: Marcel Prokopczuk | Reducing CO2 Emissions through Financial Markets
- 6.6.2023: Martin Gassebner | Terrorism and the Financial Markets
- 13.6.2023: Jens Robert Schöndube | The Cap-and-Trade System for CO2 – A Game-theoretic Analysis of a Supply Chain
- 20.6.2023: Philipp Sibbertsen | Statistical Modelling of Energy Prices
- 27.6.2023: Maximilian Todtenhaupt | Energy Price Roller Coaster – How do Turbulent Energy Markets Affect Society?